

Cassie Whittington's inheritance of fifteen million dollars has been put on hold while vengeful family members contest the will.

But the potential loss of wealth is the least of her worries -- her ex-husband has re-entered her life and is wrecking havoc with her relationship with Sam Barlow, her boss at the landscape company.

Cassie has to make a choice: return to her old life with Charlie or start a new life with Sam.

An added complication is a police investigation involving Livvie, Cassie's dearest friend, and Livvie's fiance, who is accused of murdering the head chef at a prestigious local restaurant.

Truffles and treachery combine and may prevent Cassie from making any choices ever again....
